BUT DIANE... YOU'VE KNOWN JEFF FOR SUCH A SHORT TIME...

OH BETSY... THAT DOESN'T MATTER... HE'S WONDERFUL, AND WE'RE IN LOVE... COME ON I WANT YOU TO MEET HIM!

LOOK SLIMMER...FEEL BETTER...
WITH AMAZING NEW Tummy-Slim*
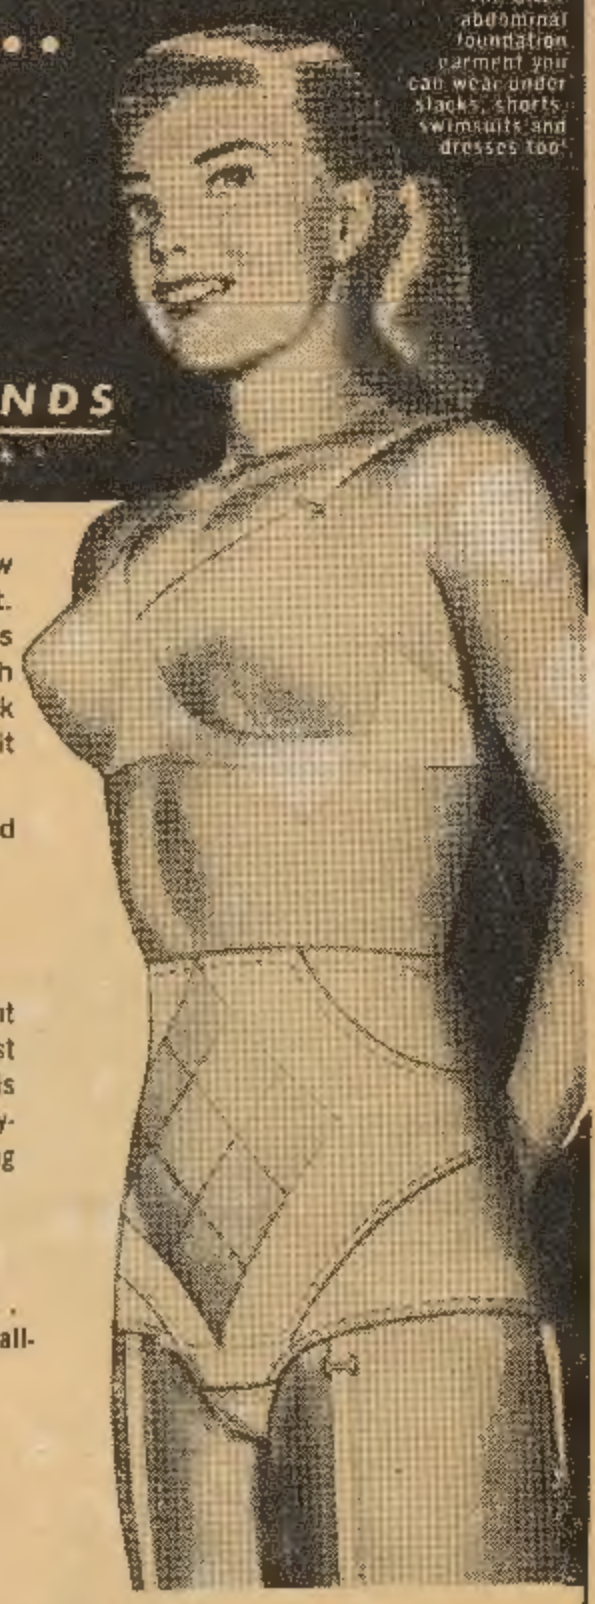
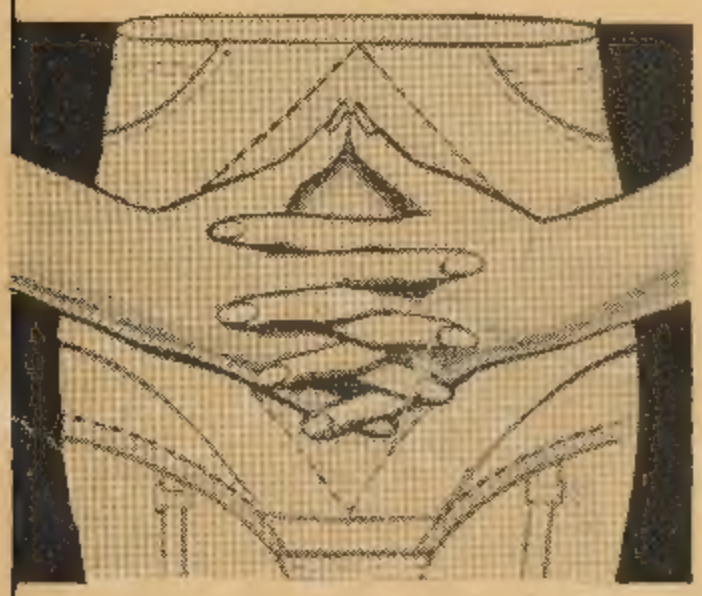
Featuring INTERLOCKING HANDS OF FIRM SUPPORT*



NOW feel yourself again instantly. Just step into Tummy-Slim, the new abdominal belt, designed especially for women who need extra flattening at the front. New Tummy-Slim flattens and gives you that strong "held-together" feeling, keeps that "falling-apart" feeling away, and holds in the extended and weakened stomach . . . improves your appearance and makes you feel lighter on your feet. You'll look and feel better and at the same time you will really be held in where you need it most with the exclusive Interlocking Hands of Firm Support* idea.

Look at the illustrations and see how new Tummy-Slim works. Magically you look and feel better — alive — full of confidence in your restored appearance.



WAISTLINE TAKEN IN STOMACH FLATTENED

Tummy-Slim takes in the waist to the right proportions -makes you ready for the latest fashion creations. Your new lovelier figure is a natural for that "new look." Only Tummy-Slim does this properly, yet correctly taking in the stomach.

BACK GENTLY COMPRESSED

Tummy-Slim is wonderful for your back . . gently compresses it . . . dispels that "falling apart" feeling.

"THE INTERLOCKING HANDS OF FIRM SUPPORT"*

Look at the illustration and see for yourself how Tummy-Slim takes in the front bulge. Only Tummy-Slim has the "Interlocking Hands of Firm Support."*

*T.M. Reg. U.S. Patent Office

TEST TUMMY-SLIM THIS WAY

Clasp hands across abdomen as in the picture, then gently press up and in. Feel and look better? Of course you do! That's what Tummy-Slim will do for you.

NO LACES — NO STEEL RIBS

Tummy-Slim has no laces or steel ribs to bother you or irritate the tender skin. Tummy-Slim supplies "hold-in" power comfortably, correctly and differently.

DON'T $ELL $HORT ON LOVE

In the financial world they called Mrs. Dorothy McMannus "The Old Fighter." It was a term of esteem and respect that the bankers and investment men had for the 75 year old widow of the late William McMannus. She held together the great industrial and financial empire he had created. And in addition she kept a seat on the stock exchange.

"If the Old Fighter has bought shares in that corporation you can be certain it is a good investment," was a favorite saying among the money boys.

"In the old days I bet she would have been a female dictator or something like that," remarked her attorney. "It's a shame the way she is trying to run the life of her granddaughter. Wish there was something I could do to get the Old Fighter to see the light."

At that very moment, Mrs. Dorothy McMannus was facing nineteen year old granddaughter, Florence McMannus.

"There is no use arguing about the matter," declared the Old Fighter. "This John Neville is after your money. Do you think he would marry you if you were penniless? You inherited your mother's looks, and alas, your father's brains. But I guess in this world pretty looks are very effective."

It all went into one ear and out of the other. One look at Florence's face and you could see she was riding on a cloud. To be specific it was cloud 23 reserved for lovers.

"He is the most wonderful man in the world," sighed Florence.

"Nothing else matters. I don't care if you disinherit me. He is marrying me because he loves me, not for the money he thinks I will inherit. Oh, when he akes me in his arms I just don't care about the rest of the world. So we will live in a two room apartment. And I will learn to cook."

"You couldn't even cook a two minute egg," snapped back her grandmother. "You probably would let it cook for an hour. And if you lost the can opener then you would starve to death. You were raised for luxury my darling granddaughter. I don't think you would bloom very well in an atmosphere of proverty. Now go to your room and wait until I send for you, because in ten minutes your young man is going to be here. I want to speak to him and then I will let you know the results."

Florence half danced up the steps to her room. When she reached the top she blew a kiss to her grandmother and then continued her short journey to her room. And exactly ten minutes later the butler announced the arrival of one John Neville.

"Show him in," replied Mrs. McMannus. "I don't think he will stay long."

Florence's beloved came into the large library room where often the Old Fighter held her business conferences. He didn't ask to be seated or wait for such an invitation. He slumped into a big easy chair.

"Too much skiing over the week end," he grinned. "I assume for this I am forgiven."

She ignored his words and took a large envelope from her desk. She opened it and showed him several pages of writing."

"This is a complete report on your entire life and background," she began. "As soon as I learned you were seeing my granddaughter I employed a discreet private detective to make an investigation about you. I knew everything you ever did. And I want to make one point very clear. It concerns my granddaughter and the money you think she will inherit.

According to the terms of the will of her father I control her entire fortune, with power even to disinherit her. And the same of course goes for my own fortune. If you marry her without my consent she will be penniless. And of course you will not get my consent. I will make you a generous offer. Give you one hundred thousand dollars not to see my granddaughter again. Since you are a fortune seeker this isn't a bad deal, because if you marry her you get nothing."

There wasn't the slightest bit of anger visible on the young man's face. The Old Fighter spoke from strength as she felt at that very moment that she had all the leading cards in the deck of life. The young man put his hand into the inside pocket of his jacket. He took out an envelope which he opened. From it he took out several sheets of typewritten paper.

"Since I want to marry Florence you can't complain if I do just what you did. Make certain of the background. You went to Frank Lyon, the private investigator. A very good, capable man. You paid him five thousand dollars to do this job for you. But there is something you didn't know at the time. The report tells you that I was a police officer for three years. And one of my fellow officers was this very Frank Lyon. You also didn't know that I saved his life when a crook tried to kill him. There is nothing about my life or background that isn't an open book.

But how about yourself? Your husband met you in Paris and married you. You had a nice french name. Something about the fact you came from a very noble ancient family. But your real name was plain Helen Benger. You were a young art student in Paris at that time. With little ability and less money. You became a waitress in a restaurant owned by a widow, a madame Duval. She liked you and suggested you change your name to hers. She even adopted you so you inherited her business at her death. Thus Helen Benger became Helen Duval. Even now you speak with that French intonation.

I really admire you, Mrs. McMannus. From nothing, you built yourself up into a wonderful woman. And I really mean that as a compliment. I will admit I haven't very much myself. But somehow I am going to find thing I can do best. Sure I tried my hand at a lot of things.

I was also an insurance salesman, a life guard, a skiing instructor, a truck driver, and ran a pet shop for two years. You know I was on the police force. Actually I don't have to tell you a thing about myself. You read it all in the report. But let us face some fundamental issues of life.

I am an honest man and not exactly a fool. I really didn't know that Florence was a rich girl when I met her that day. She never had been on an open fishing boat before. It was a wonderful day we had together. Something I will always cherish and remember. You should have seen how she laughed when she caught her first flounder. And before the day was over she could bait her own hook.

Florence is no genius with the brains. But who wants such a girl as a wife? I love her and I want her just because I love her. Doesn't that mean anything to you? If you offered me a hundred million dollars to walk out of her life, in his world. You have been so used to living to her name.

So go ahead and disinherit her. Somehow you have to learn that money isn't everything in his world. You have been so use to living in terms of millions you forgot that there is a world outside the dollar sign. When there is spring in the air do you notice the flowers that are blooming? Or the birds on the tree that are gently singing their songs? Or the lovers on the park bench that swear eternal faithfulness to each other?

I know that Florence is up in her room. If you want me to leave now — it will be with her. We will be married at City Hall. Then we will spend a week at Atlantic City or Cape May for the honeymoon. My apartment is small and Florence will share it with me. I'll get her all new clothing so she can leave without a thing."

Mrs. McMannus didn't answer. Somehow she had lost control of the entire situation. Her cards in the deck of Life were useless now. She restrained the tears that were coming to her eyes. She didn't reply until she felt her voice would be firm. Then she sent for her granddaughter and looked at the two lovers.

"I always give advice to my friends, "she grinned. "But now I have something additional to suggest. Never sell short on love! I hope you both will forgive an old lady. I can only plead that what I tried to do for my granddaughter was with her interest in my heart. Now we have a lot of things to discuss."

She rang for the butler and he came into the room. His face was something like a piece of ice that never moved.

"Have an extra plate set for lunch," she said. "My granddaughter's fiance is dining with us."

For the first time in fifteen years that face of ice seemed to melt.

"A pleasure madame," replied the perfect butler. "And there will be roses on the table. So appropriate at this time. And there will also be the cake."
